The original version of this article unfortunately contained mistakes.

This is a correction to "J Surg Trauma. 2018;6(2):73-76." In the originally published version of this paper, there was an error in the abstract and main content. In this report, the offending snake was mistakenly mentioned an adder snake (3rd sentence in the "Abstract" and 1st paragraph in the "Case" part). However, the offending snake was actually a Saw scaled viper (Echis carinatus sochureki). The authors express their apologies for this error, and state that this correction does not affect the findings and does not change the scientific conclusions of the article in any way.
